

Members of the Commission on Integrity and Public Confidence in State Government

- Co-chairman Rick Boucher, of Abingdon, is a Partner at the law firm Sidley Austin, LLP. He served in the Senate of Virginia for seven years and 28 years in the U.S. House of Representatives. During his congressional tenure, Boucher served on both the House Energy and Commerce Committee and the Judiciary Committee, chairing the subcommittees on energy and air quality; and communications, technology and the Internet. He carved out a role as a trusted bipartisan leader on critical issues including telecommunications and Internet policy.
- Co-chairman Bill Bolling, of Hanover, is the Managing Director – Virginia Operations for Riggs, Counselman, Michaels & Downes, one of the largest independent insurance companies in the country. He spent 24 years in local and state elected office, including four years as a member and Chairman of the Hanover Board of Supervisors, 10 years in the Senate of Virginia and eight years as Lieutenant Governor of Virginia. During his public service, he earned a reputation as a consensus-building lawmaker and leader in economic development, health care and open government issues. He is Chairman of the Virginia Mainstream Project.
- Viola Baskerville, of Richmond, is the Chief Executive Officer of Girl Scouts of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Her previous career in politics began as a member of the Richmond City Council, including a period as vice mayor. She served four terms as a member of the House of Delegates and sponsored legislation providing scholarships for African-American students in Prince Edward County who were denied an education when its schools were closed. Gov. Tim Kaine later tapped her to be his Secretary of Administration, a job overseeing nine state agencies.
- Sharon Bulova, of Fairfax, is chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, a post she has held since February 2009. She previously served as the Braddock District Supervisor from 1988 until 2009. She has been a champion for regionalism as a member and past chairman of the Northern Virginia Regional Commission. Bulova also founded Faith Communities in Action, a countywide network which enables faith communities and charitable nonprofit organizations to work in partnership with local government to better respond to the needs of the community.
- John T. Casteen III, of Keswick, is University Professor and President Emeritus at the University of Virginia. During his tenure as President of the University from 1990 to 2010, he increased the number of students and faculty members, expanded international programs for research, and bolstered the University's endowments and its stature nationally. He served as Virginia's Secretary of Education from 1982 to 1985. Among his many honors and recognitions is the creation of the John T. Casteen III Faculty Fellowship in Ethics awarded to University faculty members.

- Christopher Howard, of Hampden Sydney, is President of Hampden-Sydney College and one of the youngest college presidents in the United States. Howard previously served as Vice President for Leadership & Strategic Initiatives at the University of Oklahoma, where he also was the Director of the Honors College Leadership Center. He is a founder, former chairman and current trustee of the Impact Young Lives Foundation, a nonprofit organization that provides scholarship and travel opportunities for South African university students of color. During his tenure, Hampden-Sydney College has twice been named champion in the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges Ethics Bowl and twice been runner-up.
- Susan A. Magill, of Alexandria, is Vice President for Advancement at George Washington's Mount Vernon. Previously, she served as Managing Director of Philanthropic Services and Government Relations for the Pew Charitable Trust, and Chief of Staff to Senator John Warner for more than 20 years. She has served on the Board of Visitors of William & Mary College and was the second woman elected as Rector of the college's governing body. She was chair of the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia from 2010 to 2012.
- Courtney M. Malveaux, of Henrico County, is a business attorney at ThompsonMcMullan. Previously, he served as Commissioner of Virginia's Department of Labor and Industry and is the Immediate Past President of the National Association of Government Labor Officials. He is a former Assistant Attorney General and a former Deputy Counsel to the Attorney General of Virginia. As a former Associate Solicitor General, he assisted in developing appellate arguments and briefs before a variety of state and federal appellate courts up to the Supreme Court of the United States.
- Joe T. May, of Loudoun County, is Chairman of the Board and Chief Technologist for EIT, LLC. Previously, he served in the Virginia House of Delegates for 20 years, including six years as Chairman of the Transportation Committee. During his tenure in the House, he earned a reputation as a thoughtful and effective legislator. An engineer by trade, he holds more than 20 patents in the fields of electrical and electronic engineering.
- John Sherman, Jr., of Richmond, is former President and CEO of BB&T Scott & Stringfellow, Inc. He has a long record of public service and civic engagement in the Metro Richmond community. He received the 2005 Verizon Arête Award from Leadership Metro Richmond, and in 2011 he received the Edward Wayne Medal from Virginia Commonwealth University. He has served as chairman of the Greater Richmond Chamber of Commerce, Chairman of the United Way campaign, and Chairman of the Management Roundtable. Currently, he serves on the boards of Albemarle Corporation and Virginia Commonwealth University Health System.